Hints on the Culture of Water Lilies and Aquatics

WATER LILIES are easier to grow than anything in the garden and far less trouble. They bear flowers in direct proportion to the amount of space and quality of soil used.

Aquatic plants do best in a good rich clay loam. Probably the best is that from a pasture or good garden. Mix well with one-third well rotted cow manure. Bone meal or dried blood are also excellent—about one pound to 1 1/4 cubic ft. of soil.

After the soil is mixed, spread it over the bottom of the pool to the required depth, about 12". In the formal pool or where it is desired to keep the varieties separate, boxes or tubs may be used. Bear in mind always that the more and better soil make more and better flowers.

In planting it is safe to allow 4 to 6 square feet of pool surface for each lily. That will allow plenty of room for other aquatic plants.

Water Lilies should be planted with the top root or bulb about even with the surface of the soil. Then cover with sand or gravel to keep the fish from disturbing the soil. From 4" to 12" of water above the crown will do, striking a medium is always best. Start the plant with shallow water increasing the depth as they grow larger and stronger. Plenty of sunlight is essential and will repay you in size and quality of blooms.

As you see there is no mystery about the successful culture of Water Lilies. Good soil, plenty of sunlight and from 4" to 12" of water above the crown, will make your garden as beautiful as any in the land.

Hardy Water Lilies do best when planted after the middle of April as at that time they start growing in their natural state.

Tropical or tender Water Lilies do best after warm weather is established, therefore we ship strong, well grown plants after June 1st.

We are familiar with the proper time to plant in all sections of the country, and we never ship before it is time to plant in your section and we always ship in plenty of time to allow you the longest period of enjoyment from your pool.
SUPERLATIVES are not sufficiently descriptive for these gorgeously beautiful Nymphaeas of the Lily Pool. One must see them to properly appreciate their beauty of coloration, perfection and variety of form and ever blooming habits. No other part of the garden will give you half the joy, the satisfaction or restful peace, if you wish, for twice the care that the Tropical Water Lily brings the water gardener. Their colors are those of the rainbow, ranging as they do from palest ivory, pink, rose, red, lavender, pale blue, violet blue to deep royal purple.

Tropical Water Lilies are so extremely adaptable that when confined in restricted quarters, such as a very small pool or tub, they send up a profusion of small blossoms, while if allowed about 20 to 25 square feet of pool surface they will reward with literally hundreds of large brilliantly colored blooms.

Tropicals or tender Water Lilies do best after warm weather is established, therefore we ship strong, well grown plants after June the first. Bear in mind, however, that this fact will not delay Shipment of the hardier plants which are sent as soon as the weather permits, which is usually from the first of May on, in the Northern states.

The culture as before mentioned, is extremely simple. Tropical Water Lilies are planted as the Hardy Lilies, and since the plant is already well started, it makes extremely rapid growth, soon outstripping the rest of the plants of the water kingdom and assuming its rightful heritage of aristocratic and royal ruler of the water garden.

Water Lilies and Aquatic Plants propagated and grown in good, rich clay soil and temperate waters, such as ours, do much better when transplanted and are not so liable to check, as are those, grown and forced in the extreme South and West.
Our collections provide a practical way to have a beautiful water garden. They are arranged to give you the most pleasing results with the least expense.

In small pools, with small or medium growing varieties, it is safe to allow from 8 to 12 square feet for each water lily; those with large leaf spread in bigger pools, 12 to 20 square feet.

The culture of Japanese and Chinese fish is an art that has been appreciated and esteemed for countless centuries in those more enlightened countries.

For esthetic reasons alone one would be repaid by the sheer beauty of these piscatorial denizens of the ponds, pools, and streams.

Educational—we will not dwell upon that—but when you realize how many years it took to evolve the wonderously beautiful Korean Fringetail or the Chinese Red Telescope from the common five and ten cent stock, you will have a faint idea that perhaps there is something in the theory of evolution.

For many, many generations, in China as well as Japan, every bit of controlled water has harbored some variety of goldfish. Some, because the owner admired beautiful things; some for scientific reasons, but mostly because the finny dwellers therein were extremely useful guardians of health.

Goldfish subsist for the most part in nature on insect life and plant pests, mosquito larvae is one of their main articles of diet during that season. So you see that they are most necessary.

A golden streak; a silvery flash or a lazily floating view of black velvet with still more bewildering glimpses of red, blue, lavender, pearl, orange and purple. These are just a few impressions of color. The shape and curves of these finny marvels are just as many and varied.

We have assembled for your selection a collection of Goldfishes unrivaled by any.

All of our Goldfish, except for a few of the rarer varieties, have been bred and raised in natural ponds and are perfectly at home either in the pool or aquarium.

Ornamental Aquariums

Drawn angle aluminum, with double strength glass. This popular type comes in 3, 5, 7, 11 and 15 gallons and sells at $1.00 per gallon.

We offer two distinct styles of Aquariums and both are well reinforced, having a support or band that grips them at the corners and does not allow them to spring when they are handled. These Aquariums come in two colors, green and gold and green with touches of black. We are selling them in nests of three and four—the bulb edge in nests of three and the frame in nests of four. These are just what you need and solve many problems in aquarium management—in the event of young fish or illness or a specially secretive courtship. Because they are uniform in their design several may be retained in one room and harmonize nicely.

A. I. Nest of four aquariums, total capacity 10 gal. $10.00
B. E. Nest of three aquariums, total capacity 10 gal. 10.00
